encourage you to be a supportive classmate. If your response earned less than full marks, here are possible reasons why:

-It fell below the required length indicated on the assignment instructions, or had missing parts.

-It didn't follow the format, instructions, or length guidelines indicated in the Peer Review Instructions for P1 Summary & Response

-It offered little or no constructive criticism to your partners, or only gave suggestions on formatting or surface-level aspects.

-It offered suggestions that were inaccurate for this assignment or that were too vague to be useful (for instance, telling a classmate that their summary lacked reporting verbs, but not where they could add them).

-It was the 3rd response received by a particular classmate.

-It didn't consistently refer to your partner as "you".

If you have questions about your score or this activity, please review the materials on D2L and then, if you still have any questions, please get in touch with me. Thank you.

Overall Feedback:
Thank you everyone for your reflections on this assignment.

If your score is less than 2/2, the likely reason is either a) that each comment didn't identify a specific strategy you had used (as requested by the instructions), or 2) you highlighted the draft but didn't leave four comments of 1-3 sentences in the margins of your submission.

NOTE 2/21: If your current score is "0", that can change. Just submit this task any time within a week of submitting your Project 1 Final Draft.

DD13Task1: Feedback to AB Rough Draft: done in-class 2-28	2 / 2	0.54 / 0.54	100 %	Overall Feedback: If you submitted two responses, but your score is less than 2/2, the most likely reason is that one ore more of your responses overlooked critical flaws in your partner's tables. For instance, your partner might have: a) used the wrong table, b) not clearly connected their sources to their research question, or c) not listed the appropriate information in each part of the table. If your partner committed one of these errors but your response didn't mention it, then your response didn't earn full credit.

DD15Task1: Genre Analysis of the Literature Review	2 / 2	0.54 / 0.54	100 %	Overall Feedback: To earn full credit on this assignment, it is necessary to make two submissions: a partially completed document submitted before class time on 3/16, and a completed document submitted at the end of class on that date (or shortly afterward). If you've not yet submitted a completed version, you may submit one for increased credit anytime before submitting your first draft of Project 1.

Hi everyone,

Thank you for providing feedback to your classmates. I saw a lot of good responses here. As I mentioned in the instructions for this assignment, I evaluate Peer Review more rigorously than any other assignment in the class. When you do this assignment, you are not only doing it for yourself, you are also doing it for your classmate. I take this approach in order to encourage you to be a supportive classmate. If your response earned less than full marks, here are possible reasons why:

-It fell below the required length indicated on the assignment instructions, or had missing parts.

-It didn't follow the format indicated in the instructions to this task, or was formatted in a way that made it difficult to read.

level aspects.

-It offered suggestions that were inaccurate for this assignment, suggestions that were unclear, or that were too vague to be useful (for instance, telling your partner that they should include transitions, but not indicating exactly where)

-It was the 3rd or 4th response received by a particular classmate.

-It didn't consistently refer to your partner as "you".

If you have questions about your score or this activity, please review the materials on D2L and then, if you still have any questions, please get in touch with me. Thank you.

Overall Feedback:
To earn full credit on this task, it must be submitted within one week of the time when you submit your Project 2 final draft (if submitted later, it may earn up to half credit).

If you submitted on-time but your score is less than 100%, the reason is either: a) the submission included less than four comments, or b) the comments didn't clearly label, and then explain, four separate academic writing strategies that you used while writing Project 2.

DD21Task1: Genre Analysis (English)	3 / 2	0.81 / 0.54	150 %	Overall Feedback: Some of you earned an extra credit point on this task for winning an in-class activity on April 4.
DD22Task1: Genre Analysis (non-English)	2 / 2	0.54 / 0.54	100 %	Overall Feedback: Note: if your current score on this task is a "0", you may still earn full credit on it, but only if you submit it before submitting your draft of Project 3.
DD23Task1: Rough Draft of Project 3 for Peer Review	2 / 2	0.54 / 0.54	100 %
DD24Task1: Project 3 Peer Review	2 / 2	0.54 / 0.54	100 %	Overall Feedback: Thank you everyone for your work on this peer review task. Most students who submitted the task on-time (by the end of Sun 4/16) earned full credit for both submissions. If your submissions didn't earn full credit, here are possible reasons: -Your response was the 3rd, 4th, etc. response received by a particular classmate. -Your peer review didn't respond to parts of the cover letter than your classmate had completed.

-You peer review gave responses to parts of the cover letter that your classmate hadn't yet completed.

-Your response didn't refer to your classmate in the second person ("you")

-Your response was uploaded as an attachment (as I've mentioned before, please write your response directly to the discussion board; attachments can be inconvenient for me and for your partner to access and read).

-Your response was submitted late.

I hope my explanations here are clear and helpful,

Nick H.
